BLenheim PALACE

Britain's Greatest Palace

Afternoon Tea at Blenheim Palace 2009

Afternoon Tea can be taken in The Indian Room at Blenheim Palace, situated next to the Water Terraces café. Afternoon Tea is served daily throughout the season from 14th February until 13th December 2009 from 3.00 pm until 5.30 pm. During the Christmas season try our Festive Afternoon Tea, from 14th November 2009. Prior reservation for Afternoon Tea is highly recommended and is subject to availability at all times.

The Indian Room

In his designs for the Palace, the architect, Sir John Vanburgh intended that the area under The Long Library, currently The Water Terraces Café and the Indian Room, should be a 'grotto'. This was never installed and during the 18th century the area became known as The Stone Gallery.

In the 1820's the 5th Duke of Marlborough changed the area considerably and the current Indian Room was described a Drawing Room with a large mural depicting a tiger hunt in India giving the room its' current name. The 9th Duke of Marlborough installed the fine water terraces and fountains which The Indian Room now overlooks. The Indian Room is a truly lovely setting and has wonderful views over the magnificent Water Terraces.

Blenheim Palace Hospitality are pleased to offer three tempting, afternoon teas. All of our cakes, brownies, scones, muffins, macaroons and buns are all handmade daily in the Water Terraces kitchens by our own cake maker, Philippa
